Description: Jim Harvey, Executive Director of the Albuquerque Center for Peace and Justice, will shed light on the deep and lasting relationships between the performing arts experience and civil rights struggles that remain to modern day. The turn of the twentieth century in this country, saw a rapid rise of Blacks, many of whom were former slaves, turning towards creating a new niche in the entertainment industry. While heavily segregated, Black performers carved out a robust and broad range of musical and theatrical expression that was so successful, it became a brand in the African American Community.

Title: Blues and Gospel by Freedom Singer, Ms. Bettie Mae Fikes

Date: February 16th

Time: 2 pm MT

Description: Bettie Mae Fikes "Voice" of Selma, is a powerful songster. A musical genius of a storyteller. She will weave you into her story with her impromptu lyrics; caress you with that throaty, rich, velvety voice...until you believe you are the only one in the room. Bettie Mae Fikes began singing gospel with her mother at age 4 then, as a founding member of the Freedom Singers, began traveling with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. during the Freedom Rights struggle. This is how she came to be known as the "Voice" of Selma. Ms. Fikes has graced the stages of Carnegie Hall, Newport Jazz Festival, the Library of Congress, and numerous Blues Festivals throughout the country. She has performed with the likes of Joe Turner, Lightnin' Hopkins, Albert King and Bob Dillon, just to name a few.
